

1. Think back to when you were (or if you are now) a teenager. Who/ what had the most influence on you? Good/bad? Why did that person or thing have such a big influence on you?
2. Think back to when you were a teenager (or if you are now), can you think of people older than you (family, parents, teachers, youth leaders) who you did not connect with/didn't get along with? Why do you think that was?
3. Do you agree/disagree with the statement that everyone (young or old, parent, grandparent) has a role to play in investing in the next generation? Why, why not?
4. Generally, do you find it difficult or easy to connect with teenagers? If you are a parent, do you find it difficult/easy to connect with your teenager?
5. Can you share one teenager/young person in your life that you can start/continue a relationship with. In what way can you use the strategy Lauren suggested of 'entering into their world' for that particular person?
